Curcuma

Curcumin is the principal active substance of the famous Turmeric spice, possessing a powerful anti-inflammatory and antibacterial effect. However, only 5 to 10% of the curcumin contained in the spice are assimilated. For 100% assimilation, curcumin must come in micellar form. CURCUMIN EVALAR capsules contain a micellar form of curcumin, which contributes to:

liver protection and cleansing, mild choleric effect, reducing the risk of gallstones, reducing inflammation and easing joint pain, strengthening immune defenses, protecting the body from viruses, bacteria, and fungi.

Today, nutritionists recommend including turmeric in the balanced diet, to reduce the risk of cancer. Since curcumin contributes to the reduction of inflammatory processes, it suppresses the growth of cancer cells and prevents metastasis.
